OFF TO WASHINGTON

President's Remains Leave Buffalo on a Special Train.

MYRIADS DISPLAY RESPECT.

Departure Marked by Exercises Both Appropriate and Impressive.

SOLEMN SERVICES HELD SUNDAY.

Milburn Home the Scene of Unutterable Woe and Beautiful Religious Ceremony—Body in State at the City Hall—Interesting Incidents of the Day.

Buffalo, Sept. 16.—The remains of the late president of the United States were placed on a special funeral train at 8:30 a. m., and the journey to Washington began. The exercises incident to the departure were appropriate and impressive. Myriads reverently displayed their respect to the memory of the martyred chief executive this morning and all day Sunday. The features of the Sabbath were the funeral services at the Milburn home and later the viewing of the remains by the populace, the body during the afternoon lying in state at the city hall.

Long before the time set for the funeral services the vicinity of the Milburn house was astir with preparations. Long platoons of police officers, mounted and on foot, arrived at the grounds, and were posted in details along the streets approaching the house, Major General John R. Brooke, department commander of the east, who was personally in command of all the forces participating in the escort, arrived at 10 o'clock.

President Arrives.

At 10:30 o'clock the military and naval detachments took temporary station on West Ferry street, immediately around the corner from the Milburn house. The naval contingent was fittingly represented in all branches. Meantime members of the cabinet, officials high in the government service and near friends of the martyred president began to fill the walks leading up to the entrance of the Milburn residence, and with bowed heads they entered the house. It was just eight minutes after the opening of the service when a covered barouche drove up to the house bringing President Roosevelt and Mr. and Mrs. Wilcox, at whose home he is a guest. The president looked grave as he alighted and turned to assist Mrs. Wilcox from the carriage. His face did not relax into a smile to the salutations of those nearest the carriages, but he acknowledged the greetings silently and with an inclination of the head. Word passed up the well filled walk that the president had arrived, and those waiting to gain entrance fell back, making a narrow lane through which Mr. Roosevelt passed along to the house.

As the president passed within the house and the services were about to begin the long line of soldiers and sailors swung in columns of fours into Delaware avenue and formed in battalion front along the beautiful thoroughfare opposite the house and immediately facing it. On the extreme left were the regulars, on the right the sailors and marines, in the center the national guardsmen. They stood at parade rest, with colors lowered, each flag wound about its staff and bound with crepe. The front of the house and the lawns had been cleared by this time and the sweep of the avenue was now deserted save for the rigid, motionless ranks across from the house.

The service had already begun when there was a clatter of hoofs down the avenue, and four high-stepping black horses came into view drawing the hearse which was to bear the casket of the dead president. It was a heavy vehicle, without plumes or any trappings to relieve the dead black. The hearse halted at the corner to await the conclusion of the services.

With the Dead.

Outside the house there was a half hour of silence and waiting. Within the house of death was woe unspeakable. In the drawing room to the right of the hall, as President Roosevelt entered, the dead chieftain was stretched upon his bier. His head was to the rising sun. On his face was written the story of the Christian forbearance with which he had met his martyrdom. Only the thinness of his face bore mute testimony to the patient suffering he had endured. He was dressed as he always was in life. The black frock coat was buttoned across the breast where the first bullet of the assassin had struck. The black string tie below the standing collar showed the triangle of white shirt front. The right hand lay at his side. The left was across his body. He looked as millions of his countrymen have seen him, save for one thing. The little badge of the loyal legion, the only decoration he ever wore, was missing. And those who remarked it spoke of it, and after the body was taken to the city hall the little badge which he prized through life was placed again where it had always been.

The body lay in a black casket on a black bearskin rug. Over the lower limbs was flung the starry banner he had loved so well. The flowers were few as befitted the simple nature of the man. Two sentries, one from the sea and one from the land guarded the remains. The family had taken leave of their loved one before the others arrived. Mrs. McKinley, the poor, grief-crushed widow, had been led into the chamber by her physician, Dr. Rixey, and had sat a while alone with him who had supported and comforted her through all their years of wedded life. But though her support was gone she had not broken down. Dry-eyed she gazed upon him and fondled his face. She did not seem to realize that he was dead. Then she was led away by Dr. Rixey, and took up her position at the head of the stairs where she could hear the services.

The relatives, friends and public associates of the dead president all had opportunity to view the remains before the service began. The members of the cabinet had taken their leave before the others arrived. They remained seated beside their dead chief while the sad procession viewed the body.

Senator Hanna, who had fairly worshipped his dead friend for years, entered the room at this time, but did not approach the casket. His face was set like an iron-willed man who would not let down the barriers of his grief. The senator spoke to no one. His eyes were vacant. He passed through the throng and seated himself behind Governor Odell, sinking far down into his chair and resting his head upon his hand. During all the service that followed he did not stir.

Funeral Services.

Just before 11 o'clock President Roosevelt entered, coming into the room from the rear through the library. After passing into the hall he had made his way around through the sitting room behind into the library. There was an instantaneous movement in the room as the president appeared. Every one rose and all eyes were turned toward the president. He moved forward again with the tide of the procession to his place at the head of the line of cabinet officers. When he reached the head of the line of cabinet officers he faced the casket. Long he gazed, standing immovable save for a twitching of the muscles of the chin as he labored, with heavy breath, to repress his emotion.

Before Rev. Charles Edward Locke, of the Delaware avenue Methodist Episcopal church, began the service, the signal was given and there welled out from the hall the beautiful words of "Lead, Kindly Light," sung by a quartet. It was President McKinley's favorite hymn. When the singing ended the clergyman read from the word of the 15th chapter of the First Corinthians. All had risen as he began and remained standing throughout the remainder of the service. Again the voices rose with the words of "Nearer, My God, to Thee," the very words President McKinley had repeated at intervals of consciousness during the day of agony before he died. As the music died away the pastor spoke again. "Let us pray," he said, and every head fell upon its breast. He began his invocation with a stanza from a hymn sung in the Methodist church. His prayer was a fervent one.

All present joined in the Lord's prayer as the minister repeated it. President's Roosevelt's voice being audible at the back of the room. The service concluded with a simple benediction. The funeral director was about to step forward to place the cover on the casket when suddenly there was a movement behind Governor Odell. Senator Hanna, who had risen, saw that the last opportunity to look into the countenance of his dead friend had come. Pressing forward, in an instant he was at the side of the casket and bending over and looking down into it. Almost two minutes passed and then he turned away and the coffin was closed.

Colonel Bingham signalled the body bearers. Four sailors, two infantry sergeants and two artillery sergeants bore the casket aloft and out of the house. The president, cabinet and others followed it. Mrs. McKinley and the members of the family remained. The widow had passed through the ordeal bravely and without breaking down. It was within a minute or two of 11:30 o'clock when three rolls of a muffled drum told those outside the house the funeral cortege was about to appear. At the moment the casket appeared, "Nearer, My God, to Thee," ascended in subdued strains from one of the military bands. Tenderly the bearers lowered the casket from their shoulders and placed it in the hearse. The notes of Chopin's funeral dirge succeeded the strains of the hymn. The soldiers and sailors swung into long columns and took up the march southward toward the city hall.

At the City Hall.

The casket was lifted from the hearse to the shoulders of the sailors and marines and was borne into Buffalo's official home. Outside there was not a man, so far as could be seen, who did not stand defying the elements, with hat removed, respecting his dead president. Guarding the body were a sergeant of artillery at the head, a marine at the foot; to one side was a sergeant of infantry, to the other another marine. The casket was immediately opened its full length. An American flag was thrown across the foot of the casket, and resting against it were wreaths of roses.

At 12:35 o'clock exactly the police were notified that the body could be viewed by the people. A minute later and the first of the large line came through the doors. Solemn visaged, in silence they moved past the bier to view the face of the president. Old men and weak women and strong men, children, leaders of men and laborers, all these classes were represented in the throng that filed past. All day and evening the people came, 7,000 persons per hour passing the bier.

A death mask of the president's face was made Sunday evening. The mask was taken by Edward L. A. Pausch of Hartford, Conn. Pausch has modeled the features of many of the distinguished men who have died in this country in recent years. The mask is a faithful reproduction of the late President's McKinley's features.

Roosevelt Takes the Oath.

The oath of office was administered to President Roosevelt at the residence of Mr. Wilcox, with whom he stopped while here. The oath was administered by United States District Judge John R. Hazel at 3:35 in the presence of five cabinet officers, Root, Hitchcock, Long, Wilson and Smith, Senator Depew, Mr. and Mrs. Wilcox, Secretary Cortelyou, William Loeb, jr., the secretary to President Roosevelt, and a number of others.

Before taking the oath Mr. Roosevelt said: "I shall take the oath at once in accordance with your request and in this hour of deep and terrible national bereavement, I wish to state that it shall be my aim to continue absolutely unbroken the policy of President McKinley for the peace and prosperity and honor of our beloved country."

Cortelyou Temporary Secretary.

Buffalo, Sept. 16.—President Roosevelt passed a very quiet Sunday at the Wilcox house, arranging to attend the funeral of the late president. His secretary, Mr. Loeb, and his assistants, were, however, kept busy opening telegrams and mail and classifying them. Piled up on the oak table in the sitting room of the house were at least 600 telegrams and letters, all of them expressing regret at the sad occurrence of the late president and assurance of confidence and support to the new president. The only announcement the president had to make was that Mr. Cortelyou, the secretary of President McKinley, would for the present act in that capacity for him because of his knowledge of the condition of affairs. Mr. Cortelyou confirmed the statement.

King Edward's Tribute.

London, Sept. 16.—United States Ambassador Choate arrived at the embassy from Scotland Saturday morning. No official news of President McKinley's death had been received prior to his arrival. On the Mansion House and other public and private buildings the flags were quickly placed at half mast. All the papers issued extras lined with deep black and sympathy was universally expressed. The lord mayor sent to Ambassador Choate a message of condolence. King Edward telegraphed to Ambassador Choate as follows: "Most truly do I sympathize with you and the whole American nation at the loss of your distinguished and ever to be regretted president."

Czolgosz's Trial.

Buffalo, Sept. 16.—Governor Odell announced that he had declined to call a special term of the supreme court to try the murderer of President McKinley because he believed that haste was not necessary. He said the district attorney had assured him that the grand jury would indict and the case be on trial within 15 days, and to call a special term and get a jury assembled would take more than that. The assassin is in the Erie county penitentiary, whither he was taken Saturday night, the officials unwitting the gathered throng by having Czolgosz arrayed in the garb of a policeman.

PASSING OF MCKINLEY.

Scenes at the Deathbed When the Spirit Winged Its Flight.

Buffalo, Sept. 16.—William McKinley, 25th president of the United States, died at 2:15 o'clock Saturday morning from the effect of an assassin's bullet.

The death of President McKinley came in the small hours of the morning under circumstances of peculiar weirdness. For hours he had lain unconsciously with all hope of his survival abandoned. As early as 6 o'clock Friday night the physicians pronounced him a dying man, and soon thereafter the rigors of approaching death began to creep upon him. The administration of powerful stimulants was maintained until 7 o'clock, but with no effect. It was seen that the end was near at hand and those nearest and dearest to the stricken president were summoned for the offices of the last farewell. He came out of a stupor about 7 o'clock, and while his mind was partially clear there occurred the last endearments, the last submission of the sufferer to the will of the almighty, the last murmured expressions from his dying lips and the last goodbyes. In this interval of consciousness Mrs. McKinley was brought into the death chamber. The president had asked to see her. She came and sat beside him, held his hand, and heard from him his last words of encouragement and comfort. Then she was led away and not again during his living hours did she see him. The president himself fully realized that his hour had come. He whispered feebly, "Nearer My God to Thee," the words of the hymn always dear to his heart. Then in faint accents he murmured, "Good bye, all. It is God's way. His will be done, not ours." With this sublime display of Christian fortitude the president soon after lapsed into unconsciousness.

Was the Bullet Poisoned?

Chicago, Sept. 16.—A startling possibility is suggested by Dr. James A. Lydston of this city. In commenting upon the death of President McKinley he said that the bullet which went through the stomach and remained in the body might have been poisoned. The irritation that produced the increased pulsations and temperature could have been caused by a poisoned lead ball when all other conditions favored recovery. "By dipping the bullets in pus or deadly chemicals, the assassin may have made sure of his victim," said Dr. Lydston.

What the Autopsy Revealed.

Buffalo, Sept. 16.—President McKinley never had one chance to recover from the assassin's bullet, according to the report of the autopsy. Nature, doctors say, was at fault, and did nothing to help along the work of the surgeons. The president died of "toxemia, caused by necrosis of the tissues." That is another way of saying that gangrene killed him. This could not have been prevented, the doctors say, by any surgical or medical treatment.

CHARGE AGAINST CZOLGOSZ

Assassin Will Be Tried For Murder. Penalty Is Electrocution.

Buffalo, Sept. 16.—Czolgosz now stands accused of murder. The crime was committed with malice and aforethought and as such was murder in the first degree, punishment for which under the laws of New York, is death in the electric chair. Had the death of the president occurred at any other time than in the early hours of the morning it would have boded ill to the evil genius of this fearful episode. Foreseeing the danger of possible riot the police headquarters where Czolgosz is confined was roped off, and the menacing thousands held at bay. The entire police force of the city, regulars and reserve, was held on duty all night. Two regiments of the national guard of New York were at their armories ready for instant service. If the president's death had come before night it would have been difficult to avoid a conflict, but the crowds gradually broke up as the new day came on and by 2:15 a. m. when the death announcement came, the down town thoroughfares were deserted. For the moment the anger of the people is forgotten in their grief and this will doubtless consign Czolgosz to the swift and inevitable punishment provided by law.

District Attorney Penney will Monday morning present to the county court grand jury now in session, the evidence of the dastardly crime, and there is not the slightest shadow of a doubt that Czolgosz will be indicted for murder in the first degree.

County Judge Edward Emory will immediately receive the report of that indictment from the grand jury. District Attorney Penney will at once move that the indictment be transferred to the supreme court for trial, as a capital offense cannot be tried in the county court. Judge Emory will grant the desired order of the transfer. Mr. Penney will permit no delay and the assassin will be given a speedy trial by a jury.

PRESIDENT'S FUNERAL.

Extensive Preparations Being Made at Washington For the Sad Event.

PROGRAM OF EXERCISES MAPPED OUT

Remains to Be Taken Under Military Escort to the Capitol, Where They Will Lie in State. Burial at Canton.

Washington, Sept. 16.—Secretary Hay issued to the public the following announcement concerning the funeral of President McKinley:

"The remains of the president upon arrival at Washington at 9 p. m. Monday, will be carried under the escort of a squadron of United States cavalry to the executive mansion, where they will rest until 9 o'clock in the morning of Tuesday, Sept. 17. They will then be carried to the capitol, accompanied by a military and civil escort. The remains will lie there in state. Religious services will be held Tuesday in the rotunda upon the arrival there of the remains. At 8 p. m. the remains, under a military escort will be transferred to a funeral car and carried to Canton, O., via the Pennsylvania railroad, arriving there during the day Wednesday, where arrangements for the final sepulture will be committed to the charge of the citizens of Canton, under the direction of a committee to be selected by the mayor of that city. No ceremonies are expected in the cities and towns along the route of the funeral train beyond the tolling of bells."

The heads of the various departments and their principal assistants were busy making arrangements for the proper execution of so much of the funeral program as fell to them respectively. Cablegrams of condolence were still coming to the department of state from all parts of the world.

Military Busy.

In the war department, Acting Secretary Sanger was in consultation with General Gillespie, Colonel Ward and General Barry, arranging for the transportation to Washington of the troops to participate in the funeral procession, making details for guard duty and other matters. Acting Secretary Hackett ordered that a detail should be made up, consisting of two officers, four petty officers and 21 privates in the marine corps for duty at the capitol next Tuesday to supplement the army representation. The special guard of honor to represent the navy at the funeral ceremonies will comprise the following officers of high rank: Admiral Dewey, Rear Admiral Crowninshield, Rear Admiral O'Neal, Paymaster-General Remy and Brigadier-General Heywood, of the marine corps.

While General Brooke will be in general charge of military arrangements here, General Francis S. Guenther will be in command of the military contingent in the procession. Colonel Samuel Reber, son-in-law to General Miles, has been detailed to meet Mrs. McKinley and look specially after her comfort, while Colonel Henry B. Whitney, of General Miles' staff, has been designated to perform a similar service for President Roosevelt. At the capitol Sergeant-at-Arms Ransdell directed the preparation of the rotunda for the funeral service. The space in even this vast structure is entirely insufficient to meet the demand for admission of more than a fraction of the persons who think they should be admitted to the services next Wednesday.

Historic Catafalque.

The sergeant-at-arms has had the catafalque which supported the remains of Lincoln, Garfield and other statesmen brought out of the crypt in which it reposed so long, and has turned it over to William Lees sons, funeral directors, who will have the undertaking in charge. The catafalque is to be entirely covered with new black cloth.

Sergeant-at-Arms Ransdell has taken steps to secure the attendance at the funeral next Wednesday of as many senators as can be reached, and has arranged for a special car to bring from Chicago to Washington such senators from western points as can gather there in time. This car will be attached to the regular Pennsylvania train leaving Chicago at 3 p. m. today. It will be in charge of B. W. Layton, assistant sergeant-at-arms of the senate. Telegrams have been sent to every senator within reach of wire communication and the sergeant-at-arms has received a number of responses from individual senators promising to be present.

Court of Inquiry Postponed.

Washington, Sept. 16.—Admiral Dewey has recalled the notice sent by him for the meeting of the Schley court of inquiry. The court will be assembled as soon as seems proper after the interment of the late president at Canton. It may resume its sessions Friday or Saturday of next week.

SOME people are always talking about getting the "right man" in reference to the murder of Gov. Goebel. How do such people know the right man hasn't been apprehended unless they are fully informed who the "right man" is? And if they know so much, why don't they trot the "right man" out? By withholding his name, they become, in the eyes of the law, an accessory to the crime.

THE Hon. Wayne McVeigh recently uttered a timely warning, which it would be well to heed, when he said:

We ought never to forget that in democratic governments the black flag of corruption is likely to be followed by the red flag of anarchy. Yet we close our eyes in sheer cowardice to this evil and the danger it is creating, and we gravely pretend to each other that it does not exist, while we all well know that it does exist.

LAST PUBLIC UTTERANCE OF PRESIDENT MCKINLEY.

Following is the closing sentence of the last speech uttered in public by the late President. It was delivered at the Buffalo Exposition Thursday, September 5th, the day before he was shot:

"Our earnest prayer is that God will graciously vouchsafe prosperity, happiness and peace to all our neighbors and like blessings to all the peoples and powers of earth."

BRYAN ON ANARCHY.

In response to a request from the Buffalo Times for his opinion on anarchy and anarchists, William J. Bryan wired that paper the following:

"Free governments may be overthrown, but they cannot be reformed by those who violate the commandment, 'Thou shalt not kill.' Under a government like ours every wrong can be remedied by laws, and the laws are in the hands of the people themselves. Anarchy can neither be excused nor tolerated here. The man who proposes to right a public wrong by taking the life of a human being makes himself an outlaw and can not consistently appeal to the protection of the Government which he repudiates. He invites a return to a state of barbarism in which one must, at his own risk, defend his own rights and avenge his own wrongs. The punishment administered to the would-be assassin and his co-conspirators, if he has any, should be such as to warn all inclined to anarchy that, while this is an asylum for those who love liberty, it is an inhospitable place for those who raise their hands against all forms of government."

ELECTION FRAUDS IN PHILADELPHIA.

Ex-Governor Robert E. Pattison, of Pennsylvania, has performed a public service in exposing, by thorough investigation, the real cause of the enormous fraudulent vote in Philadelphia. Ballot-boxes have been stuffed with votes cast upon fictitious names, and false returns have been made in the interest of the Republican machine candidates because there has been no real attempt to prevent the one fraud or the other. In one-fourth of the election divisions the Democrats have been without representatives upon the election boards, and in many others the minority inspectors have been machine Republicans masquerading as "Democrats." Between election boards without minority representation and those with bogus minority inspectors there would be little to choose, since in either case there would be no safeguard whatever against fraud. From the revelations growing out of ex-Governor Pattison's tour there would seem to be little or no check upon election frauds in at least one-half the election divisions of the city. As the Republican machine leaders are thoroughly unscrupulous, and hesitate at no violation of law that can be safely perpetrated, it is not at all strange that thousands of fraudulent votes have been polled for the machine candidates at every election.

In compliance with the proclamation of President Roosevelt setting apart Thursday as a day of prayer and mourning, all the banks of this city will be closed that day.

Stood Death Off.

E. B. Munday, a lawyer of Henrietta, Tex., once fooled a grave-digger. He says: "My brother was very low with malarial fever and jaundice. I persuaded him to try Electric Bitters, and he was soon much better, but continued their use until he was wholly cured. I am sure Electric Bitters saved his life." This remedy expels malaria, kills disease germs and purifies the blood; aids digestion, regulates liver, kidneys and bowels, cures constipation, dyspepsia, nervous diseases, kidney troubles, female complaints; gives perfect health. Only 50c. at J. Jas. Wood & Son's drug store.

SUNDAY SCHOOL CONVENTION.

District Meetings To Be Held at Rectorville, Dover and Hebron Sunday Afternoon, Sept. 22nd.

A meeting will be held at Rectorville Sunday afternoon, Sept. 22nd, 1901, at 2:30 o'clock for the purpose of organizing Magisterial district No. 8. A similar meeting will be held at Hebron Church near Fern Leaf for the purpose of organizing District No. 4, meeting to begin promptly at 2:30 p. m. A meeting will be held at the same hour at Dover to organize District No. 3.

District No. 8 takes in Rectorville and Orangeburg, No. 3 includes Dover and Minerva, District No. 4 includes Fern Leaf, Germantown and Murphysville. Let all the churches and Sunday schools in these district elect delegates to these conventions.

The program is to be arranged by the local pastors and church workers. Make the singing one of the attractive features. At least two workers from Maysville will go to each of these meetings. Leave about one-half hour on program to be filled by these visitors. These meetings are to be made up of all the denominations.

"THY WILL BE DONE."

Prayer Was the Last Words on President McKinley's Lips—Also the Last Before the Operation.

I must confess that the most profoundly interesting note in this great scene has been the unveiling of the President's beautiful religious spirit, writes James Creelman from Buffalo. In that first terrible hour when he believed that he was about to die he turned his thoughts heavenward and bore himself like a Christian gentleman. When he was lifted on the operating table Dr. Mann said: "Mr. President we intend to cut into you at once. We allowed one President to die, but we do not intend to lose you."

"I am in your hands," murmured the President. Mr. McKinley was lifted on the operating table, stripped for the dreaded ordeal. The doctors were ready to administer ether. The President opened his eyes and saw that he was about to enter a sleep from which he might never wake. He turned his great hazel eyes sorrowfully upon the little group. Then he closed his lips. His white face was suddenly lit by a tender smile. His soul came into his countenance. The wan lips moved. A singular and almost supernatural beauty possessed him, mild, childlike and serene. The surgeons paused to listen.

"Thy kingdom come, Thy will be done." The voice was soft and clear. The tears rolled down Dr. Mynter's face. The President raised his chest and sighed. His lips moved once more.

"Thy will be done—"
Dr. Mann paused with the keen knife in his hand. There was a lump in his throat.

"For Thine is the kingdom and the power and the glory."

The eyelids fluttered faintly, beads of cold sweat stood on the bloodless brow—there was silence. Then science succeeded prayer. If there is a nobler scene in the history of Christian statesmen and rulers than this, I have not heard of it.

River News.

A small rise is reported at headwaters. The Lizzie Bay is to-night's packet for Pomeroy. Down, the Courier.

The up-river pilots all say that the rock bar at Kinney ought by all means to receive some attention from the Government dredge boat this summer. The packets have to do much twisting to get upstream in low water, while a towboat on scant water is compelled, when bound upstream at night, to wait at times for daylight, and then spend half a day doubling through. The point of the Kentucky bar needs cutting off, and the loose rocks inshore below it removed, as they invariably catch the stern or rudders of a towboat when she flanks in on them.

The L. and N.'s earnings the first week of September show an increase of $71,660.

To the Public.

The report has been currently circulated that I have said "I was glad that President McKinley was shot," and that "he should have been some time ago." I wish to say that no one regrets the dastardly deed more than I, and that no one wishes to see the guilty punished more. And want to go on record as saying that I have no more respect for the wretch who committed the act than I have for the person or persons who so persistently circulated the above report. There are assassins of character as well as persons, and the one who deliberately lies to accomplish the one would not hesitate at the taking of life, if such could be done—in the dark.

G. M. WILLIAMS.

Paris Kentuckian: "Dr. Wall, of Maysville, the ninety-two-year-old Confederate, who was reported robbed of a pair of $12 gold spectacles at Lexington fair, found them in his other vest pocket when he returned home. He read part of the time without glasses, and had done so on train unawares, and therefore, when asked loan of them, concluded they had disappeared."

The Woman's League of Kentucky, composed of women sympathizers with Caleb Powers and James Howard, to raise funds to assist them in their trial, was dissolved Friday. It is stated that almost sufficient funds have been raised for Howard, but only about $400 for Powers. The league decided to leave the matter of raising additional funds for Powers with the Louisville Defense Club.

In the Lexington City Council J. P. Scott declared there were needless extravagances in the purchase of city supplies. He said a ladder truck for the fire department cost the city $2,000, which could be purchased easily for $1,500. The Mayor, who has charge of purchasing supplies, resented the statements, and a wordy war followed, resulting in a committee being appointed to investigate the charges.

Secretary of State Hill has issued a circular letter to the County Clerks of the various counties in the State, calling their attention to the necessity for immediate action in order to secure ballot paper for the election in November. He also calls attention to the duty of the various county election boards in the matter of selecting officers to serve in the different precincts at registration and on election day.

—Misses Mamie Richeson, Tebie Farrow and Edith Berry, Mrs. James Barbour and Mrs. James Agnew and daughter are spending the day in Cincinnati.

—Congressman James N. Kehoe arrived home Saturday evening from Buffalo, N. Y., and will leave this evening for Washington to attend the funeral of the President.

—Mr. Norman Dorchester, of Sherman, Tex., after spending a few days here the guest of his uncle, Mr. Harvey Wells, left Sunday afternoon for Chester, Pa., where he will attend school this session.

I will on the first Monday in October open a school in which dress making, drafting, cutting and fitting will be taught. Each pupil will receive individual instruction.

The following testimonial from Dr. George Price, President of the college in which I taught for four years, is one of many which I have received. For further particulars apply to Miss Amelia Wood, Court street. KATE E. RYAN.

Nashville College for Young Ladies, 108 Vauxhall Place, Nashville, Tenn., Rev. Geo. W. F. Price, D. D., President, May 31, 1895.

To Whom It May Concern: This is to certify that Miss Kate E. Ryan has been in charge of the Dress Making Department of this college for four years. She organized the work in the institution for the first time, and has conducted it with marked ability and success. She is thoroughly acquainted with every detail of her business, in drafting, cutting, fitting and sewing, possesses excellent judgment in purchasing goods, fine taste in selecting patterns and great industry and painstaking in giving instruction to her pupils. Respectfully,

GEO. W. F. PRICE.

OF

"Special" Importance!

All our news is special or it wouldn't be worth printing. Nevertheless there are occasions when the economical importance of the facts is unusually great. The occasion is now here, represented by some attractive

Baretta Cloth!

This material has all the virtues of French Flannel and none of the faults. 'Tis so closely woven it cannot rough, the warp is so tight it cannot stretch. Twelve popular, stylish colors, light and dark. Most of the patterns are plain, a few have very narrow silk pin stripes widely spaced—of contrasting color. Baretta is particularly favored for shirtwaists, dressing sacks, children's dresses and it is given special recommendation for the wear and tear of the schoolroom. Price 50c. a yard, though it is a genuine 75c. value.

Entirely New!

Is the Floradora Comb for stray locks. More stylish than the hair brooch—because later. More popular because more effective.

THE BEE HIVE

TABLE LINENS.

No, No! We did not buy all the linens in the New York Market, for we only bought the cream of the best. Such a grand showing of Table Linens has never before been made in Maysville. Ireland and Scotland are the homes of Linens across the waters, but the Bee Hive is the linen headquarters of Kentucky.

UNBLEACHED TABLECLOTHS, exceptionally big values, 25c., 29c., 39c. Our 45c. and 65c. qualities are seventy-two inches wide. Red Table Cloths from 19c. to 65c.

BLEACHED TABLE DAMASK, seventy-two inches wide; a variety of beautiful patterns, 49c., 59c., 65c., 69c., 79c., 89c., $1.25, $1.49c. yard. We have a big stock of match sets.

TOWELS.

Our Towels are aristocrats—none better made. Whether you buy our 5c. Cotton Towel or our 89c. Linen Towels you will get the best values that can possibly be made for this money.

SHEET and PILLOW CASE SETS,

Made of the best muslin and hemstitched. Beautiful is too mild an adjective to describe them. $2.49 to $3.98 a set.

ALBATROSS FLANNELS.

That's the name of a new line of Flannelettes we have just received. The patterns are exceptionally pretty and the qualities are fine. They are thirty-four inches wide and we say 19c. a yard instead of 25c. We have a few Persian patterns a little narrower at 17c a yard.

A. F. C. GINGHAMS.

We consider ourselves fortunate in being able to secure some of these Gingham. They are very scarce. 9 1/2 c. a yard. They make rather pretty shirts and shirtwaists.

MR. T. C. CAMPBELL.

An Old and Well Known Member of Mason County Bar Passed Away Sunday. Funeral Tuesday at 2 p. m.

Mr. Thaddeus C. Campbell, whose very serious illness was mentioned some days ago in the BULLETIN, died last evening at 7:30 o'clock at the family residence, No. 134 East Fourth street.

Mr. Campbell suffered a partial stroke of paralysis three years ago, and gradually declined from that on. For some time after the stroke he was able to get about with the assistance of a nurse, but for the last few months he had been almost a helpless invalid. A man of great will power and strong determination he succeeded, after months of work, in settling up all his business affairs, and then to a friend he said, "I'm ready to go."

Thaddeus Charles Campbell was born near Mt. Gilead May 25th, 1828, and was consequently in the seventy-fourth year of his age. He was a son of Rev. Louis and Susan (Thomas) Campbell. At the age of twenty-one he became a resident of Maysville and spent the rest of his life here. For a long time he was one of the most successful lawyers at the Mason County bar. His wife, who was Angeline Elizabeth Jackson, a daughter of William and Eliza Jackson, of Clayville, Ky., died some years ago. Of the children born to them, five survive—Mrs. T. B. Horton and Mrs. Phil S. Kemper, of Walnut Hills, Cincinnati, Mr. A. M. Campbell, of Los Angeles, Cal., and Miss Emma and Clarence Campbell, of this city.

Mr. Campbell was one of the oldest members of DeKalb Lodge No. 12, I. O.

O. F., having been admitted April 16th, 1850.

The funeral will be under the auspices of the lodge, and will take place Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the residence, Rev. S. B. Alderson, of Portsmouth, officiating, assisted by Rev. Dr. Barbour. Burial in the Maysville Cemetery.

Born, to Mr. and Mrs. Hall Strode, of Lexington, a son.

Miss Annie Outten, of Limestone street, has been seriously ill the past week.

W. W. Longmoor and Miss Ruth Ely will wed at Frankfort Presbyterian Church October 17th.

John Ryan, of Dover, and Miss Helen Egan, of Owenton, were married in Newport Thursday by 'Squire Donelan.

The earnings of the C. and O. for the month of August were $1,488,396; an increase of $124,000 over the corresponding month of 1900.

The birth of Mary Hall Miller Raine in Atlanta, September 8th, is announced. She is a great granddaughter of the late James H. Hall of this city.

Positively the best cut yellow poplar shingles on earth. Samples at R. A. Carr's and Limestone Mill, Maysville. Address, D. G. Wilson, Orangeburg, Ky.

You want to be right up in G if you are an Elk, and get one of those handsome pins and charms on sale at Ballenger's. Great variety, ranging from $1 to $80.

Mrs. A. E. Frazee, widow of Joseph H. Frazee, formerly of this county, died Sept. 9th at her home in Okalona, Miss., aged about seventy-six. Three sons and five daughters survive.

MRS. J. C. SUTTON.

Death Claims One of Aberdeen's Most Estimable Citizens—The End Came This Morning.

Mrs. J. C. Sutton, whose serious illness was mentioned in these columns last Saturday, died at her home in Aberdeen at 1 o'clock this morning. Her remains will be interred in the Charter Oak Cemetery below Aberdeen.

Mrs. Sutton was about fifty years of age and was loved by all who knew her. Although expected at any time for several days, the news of her death was a shock to the community in which she lived.

Her husband preceded her to the grave about six years ago. Mrs. Sutton leaves a mother, two brothers and four daughters to mourn her death. She was a sister of Mr. J. Frank Ellis, a popular drygoods salesman of this city.

The funeral will take place Tuesday at 2 p. m. at the residence of her mother, Mrs. N. Ellis.

Postum coffee—Calhoun's.

Miss Fannie Frazee left this morning to accept a position as teacher in the seminary at Hollidaysburg, Pa.

Theodore Roosevelt is the youngest man by five years who ever held the high office of President. He will be forty-three years old next month.

Frank Riley, who was injured one night last week by stepping off the bridge at Short street, is now in the hospital at Fort Thomas. An examination revealed that he had sustained severe internal injuries, a badly disfigured face, and that the small bones of his right ankle had been fractured.

C. F. Taylor, auction, sold for Arthur Haughey Saturday the following personalty: One two-horse wagon $40 25, one buggy $23, one yearling filly $32 25, one two-year-old filly $71 25, one four-year-old mare $70, one old horse $35 50, four gilts $36 25, one cow $40 50, one cow $27, one yearling steer $29 25, two steers $116.

When the L. and N. freight train arrived Saturday a number of cars were run on the connecting track. They got away from the brakeman, and crashed into a car loaded with brick near the C. and O. junction, knocking one end out and derailing it. It required two or three hours work to get the track clear.

THE Y. M. C. A. ANNIVERSARY.

First Presbyterian Church Crowded to the Doors Last Evening—Col. Bain's Address.

The anniversary of the Y. M. C. A. last evening attracted an audience that crowded the First Presbyterian Church to the doors and people were turned away. Rev. F. W. Harrop presided, and all the other pastors were present. The choir, assisted by Dr. Smoot, rendered some special selections.

Col. George W. Bain, one of Kentucky's most eloquent orators, delivered a masterly address on the great problems that confront America in this new century. He closed with a powerful plea for the Y. M. C. A., an institution that is doing so great a work for the manhood of the country.

Subscriptions were called for at the close of his address in aid of the local association. Nearly $400 were subscribed.

During the evening a rising vote of thanks was extended to Rev. Mr. Harrop for his faithful work as Secretary pro tem of the association during the summer.

The new General Secretary Mr. J. S. Pilkington was unable to be present on account of sickness.

A Shocking Calamity

"Lately befell a railroad laborer," writes Dr. A. Kellett, of Williford, Ark. "His foot was badly crushed, but Bucklen's Arnica Salve quickly saved him. It's simply wonderful for burns, boils, piles and all skin eruptions. It's the world's champion healer. Cure guaranteed. 25 cents. Sold by J. Jas. Wood & Son.

Clearance Sale of SHOES

IS NOW ON AT BARKLEY'S! Biggest sweep of Fine Summer Footwear in the history of Maysville. Not a pair reserved if low prices will sell them. We had rather close out what we have left of these goods at a sacrifice than carry 'em over till next spring. There's lots of warm weather still ahead. Fully two more months' wear may be had of low shoes. In this sale all profits go glimmering, and in many instances still deeper cuts have been made, original costs not having been considered. These quotations ought to make every foot in Maysville-tingle for the want of a pair of these Shoes. Values are not fictitious, but former prices were readily obtained early in the season. Not many pairs are left in some lines, and if looking for a bargain with a big B you had better come quick before the lots are sold out.

Gentry Brothers' Parade.

The street parade presented by Gentry Bros. shows this season is composed of nine sections, each one complete in itself. Numerous kinds of music are interspersed at intervals in the pageant. Nearly every clime is represented by some of its baby animal potentates. Fine camels, ferocious monkeys, dainty ponies, pretty dogs and sagacious elephants, make up one section, which surpasses the parade of most shows to say nothing of the score or more of gold bedecked chariots and miniature dens. The consolidated parade of the Gentry Bros. shows is a sight worth seeing, and the little folks should not be denied the privilege. It will start from the show grounds, Cooper's brick yard, at 10 a. m., Sept. 23rd.

Notice to Veterans.

I wish information in regard to the Sixteenth Kentucky Infantry which was made up of soldiers of Maysville and vicinity during the early part of the Civil war. If any of the readers of this paper know any of the survivors of the Sixteenth Kentucky, Company A, or know where I can get information regarding any company of said regiment, I will deem it a great favor if you will send me your or their names. Address Lee O. Wolfe, Titonka, Iowa.

A Night of Terror.

"A awful anxiety was felt for the widow of the brave General Burnham, of Machias, Me., when the doctors said she would die from pneumonia before morning," writes Mrs. S. H. Lincoln, who attended her that fearful night, but she begged for Dr. King's New Discovery, which had more than once saved her life, and cured her of consumption. After taking, she slept all night. Further use entirely cured her." This marvelous medicine is guaranteed to cure all throat, chest and lung diseases. Only 50c. and $1. Trial bottles free at J. Jas. Wood & Son's drug store.

A Call to the Colored People.

Be it known to all men, especially to those identified with the negro race, that William McKinley, President of the United States, a friend of our race, and a benefactor of humanity, breathed his last at Buffalo, N. Y., on Saturday morning, the 14th inst., this demise being brought about through the murderous act of an anarchist whose name be it "anathema."

Now, we, in common with all our fellow citizens, are greatly affected by this untoward calamity that has befallen our country, and would show our bereavement and mingle our tears with that of the nation by a suitable memorial service.

In order to decently prepare for this solemn duty, we your pastors and leaders call upon all the people of our race strictly to set apart Thursday, September 10, 1901, as the day on which to hold suitable services—half-past 10 a. m. the hour and Scott M. E. Church the place.

And we also recommend the following order of services:

Organ Voluntary—"Flee as a Bird"—Dana.

Hymn—"Nearer, My God, to Thee"—Congregation.

Scripture Lesson—Xc. Psalm—Dr. W. S. Stevens.

Invocation—Rev. O. A. Nelson.

Quartette—"Lead, Kindly Light"—Newman.

Scripture Lesson—1 Cor. xv, 20—Rev. N. H. Talbott.

Prayer—Dr. W. R. Harrington.

Hymn—"Come, Ye Disconsolate"—Choir.

Selections and Orations—"A Great Man Has Fallen"—Prof. T. A. Reid.

Hymn—"Jesus, Lover of My Soul"—Congregation.

Remarks—By others.

Dirge—"Dead March in Saul"—Organ.

Benediction.

Hoping that the proclamation of the President of the United States, and the Governor of our State to so observe the day, will be respected, we are your leaders and representatives,

T. AUGUSTUS REID,

Principal High School.
